

Robin Austin is Project Coordinator for the Land Conservation Team (LCT), where her work is focused on the International Land Conservation Network (ILCN) and the Academics for Land Protection in New England (ALPINE) network. Previously, Robin was an Americorps Terracorps Service Member, working for the North County Land Trust in North Central Massachusetts as a Land Stewardship and Community Engagement Coordinator. She recently graduated from Smith College with a degree in Geology, and has a passion for land stewardship and conservation. She is also a 2019 graduate of the ALPINE Summer Institute, a summer training program in large landscape conservation organized by the Lincoln Institute's ALPINE and the Highstead Foundation.
